Architectural drawing of a building elevation. The drawing shows a dark gray wall with a central white rectangular feature. To the left of this feature is a window with a dashed diagonal line. To the right of the central feature are two more windows, each with a dashed diagonal line. The drawing is labeled 'elewacja pomocna' in the top left corner.
